

Quotations of Baseball

Learn 'N Copy with

Copywork is an old idea which has become new again in recent years. Long ago, people were encouraged to copy the works of the masters. This practice helped the student to learn grammar and style, spelling and logic, and many other things, all by the simple act of copying passages written by the great writers and thinkers of the past.

At Live & Learn, we believe that copywork can still be a wonderful part of a student's education, whether you use the classical method or not. Thoughts of Christmas will give your student some thought provoking comments as well as some fun thoughts. Some of these quotes could also be used to provoke further family discussion or provide writing prompts!

This book is full of quotations for you to pick from. There is also Christmas prose..which gives a good opportunity to discuss its different sentence structure. Choose the pages that are most appropriate for the age or ability of your child. Shorter quotations are at the front of the book. Longer quotations are towards the back.

In the back of the book you will also find an area to record any words and definitions as needed and an area to research biographies of any of the authors.

We have not made this book specific to any one form of handwriting. You will be able to use Italic, D'Nealian or whichever handwriting curriculum you like. Print or cursive will work equally well with this book.

Please note that some of the quotes do you slang terms.

Just for fun, here are some examples of handwriting styles, with the last example being Old English which is suitable for calligraphy. It might be fun to switch up the styles in which copywork is done.
